

	Page.
Other than the citizens of the county prohibited from taking oysters—1829, ch. 87, sec. 6,	979
Proprietors may join depots of, not exceeding two acres each, providing the hauling of seines shall not be thereby obstructed, &c.—1829, ch. 87, sec. 7,	979
Proprietor into whose lands any creek, inlet, &c. may make, not exceeding one hundred yards wide at its mouth entitled to the exclusive rights to use the same, provided the navigation is not obstructed—1829, ch. 87, sec. 8,	979
The right to form beds, or otherwise deposite oysters, &c. within the waters of this state, except as herein before excepted, shall be common to all the citizens of this state—1829, ch. 87, sec. 9,	979
Penalty of $50 for using any drag, rake or tongs, with more than six teeth on either side, in taking oysters, &c. except in the Chesapeake bay and Potomac river—1829, ch. 87, sec. 10,	979
Penalty for taking, &c. within the limits or adopted depot, &c. if the offender be free, $50 fine, or imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court; if a slave, not exceeding forty lashes, at the discretion of a single justice of the peace—1829, ch. 87, sec. 11, . . .	980
An act for the protection of, on the eastern shore of this state—1831, ch. 249,	1026
Part of the 10th section of the act of 1829, ch. 87, relative to, repealed—1830, ch. 58,	999
For the preservation of fish, oysters and terrapins, in Wye river—1834, ch. 311,	1190
Authority granted to all officers, civil and military, to carry into effect the provisions of the act of 1834, ch. 254, and of this act—1837, ch. 310, sec. 1,	1263
Taking oysters forbid, unless the party shall be a resident of the county—1837, ch. 310, sec. 2,	1263
Penalty and forfeiture for violating this act—1837, ch. 310, sec. 3, . . .	1263
Persons, other than residents, forbid to catch oysters in any of the waters of this state, within five hundred yards of the shore—1837, ch. 310, sec. 4,	1263
All civil and military officers to have the powers heretofore given to sheriffs—1837, ch. 310, sec. 5,	1264
The proceeds of fines and forfeitures, after the payment of prosecution, to be paid, one-fourth to the officer making the arrest, and the balance among those who aided—1837, ch. 319,	1264

PARDONS.

The governor may grant reprieves and pardons for any crime except in such cases where the law shall otherwise direct—Const. art. 33.
The governor empowered to grant to any offender capitally convicted a pardon on condition—Nov. 1787, ch. 17, sec. 2,	248
If a slave, and the condition be his leaving the state, the governor may direct the sheriff to contract for the transportation of such slave agreeably to the condition—1787 ch. 17, sec. 3,	248